

Christian Values at Speen Church of England School

Schools and teachers are a major influence on the developing values of children. They learn values at school from everyday interactions, from the example set by adults and from planned activities across the curriculum.

